

BIOGRAPHICAL NOTES

Marta Anczewska is Senior Lecturer in the Psychiatric Department of the Institute of Psychiatry and Neurology in Warsaw, Poland. Her interests include diagnosis, treatment and rehabilitation of psychosis, mainly schizophrenia. (anczew@ipin.edu.pl)

Alexander Baldacchino is Senior Lecturer in the Department of Psychiatry at the University of Dundee and Consultant Psychiatrist in Substance Misuse for Fife, Scotland. His interests include treatment of addictions, dual diagnosis, post traumatic stress disorder and research methods. (drbaldacchino@hotmail.com)

Pere Bonet Dalmau is a psychiatrist and Head of the Department of Mental Health at the Hospital General Manresa in Barcelona. He has overall responsibility for the service and his interests include management and psychosocial indicators of ongoing mental health. (pbonet@hgm.scs.es)

Antoni Corominas Diaz is a psychiatrist at the Hospital General Manresa in Barcelona and is Head of the Day Hospital for the partial hospitalisation of acute psychiatric patients and Head of the Day Centre for the rehabilitation of chronic psychotic patients. His research interests include schizophrenia, partial hospitalisation and treatment resistant depression. (corominas@sumi.es)

Czeslaw Czabala is a Professor of Psychology at the Institute of Psychiatry and Neurology in Warsaw and Deputy Director for Research of the Institute. He teaches health psychology and psychotherapy at the Jagiellonian University in Krakow. His main research interests include psychotherapy, mental health promotion and health psychology. (czabala@ipin.edu.pl)

Ian Dawson is the Coordinator of Services at the Salten Psychiatric Centre in Bodo, Norway. He has worked in the field of psychiatric nursing for many years and his role now includes managing the interface with the primary health services. His interests focus on research and clinical issues in case management and psychiatric training of primary health care staff. He oversees communication and the website for ENTER Mental Health. (Ian.Dawson@nps.nl.no)

Lars Erdner is a clinical psychologist in the Department of Psychosis Norrtullssjoh at St. Gorans Hospital in Stockholm. He is the Coordinator for Psychologists, is a psychotherapy supervisor and works with a case management team. His interests include the development of treatment models for psychosis and family therapy and education in the care of psychotic patients. (Lars.Erdner@spo.sll.se)

Tim Greacen is Director of the Research Unit at Maison Blanche Hospital in Paris - Laboratoire de recherche de l'Etablissement Public de Sante de Maison Blanche. He has a background in social psychology and has published in the field of patient rights and also sexuality and mental health. (tgreacen@ch-maison-blanche.fr)

Bo Ivarsson is the Research and Development Officer at Boras lasarett in Sweden and is responsible for establishing the Regional and National Outcome Monitoring Systems. He is particularly interested in the integration of qualitative data collection into daily practice. (bo.ivarsson@vgregion.se)

Heli Laijarvi is Senior Lecturer at the Department of Nursing Science in the University of Tampere in Finland. She is responsible for teaching and research her interests include the organisation of mental health services and qualitative research methods. (nuheni@uta.fi)

Mervyn London is Consultant Psychiatrist at the Cambridge Drug and Alcohol Service and Associate Lecturer at the Department of Psychiatry in the University of Cambridge. His clinical role encompasses substance abuse and adult psychiatry and his interests include the treatment of addictions, dual diagnosis and service development. (MervynLondon@aol.com)

Joanna Meder is the Deputy Director for Clinical Activity and Head of the Department of Psychiatric Rehabilitation at the Institute of Psychiatry and Neurology in Warsaw, Poland. Her interests include the treatment and rehabilitation of chronic schizophrenia patients, those with dual diagnosis as well as the development of treatment services. (mederj@ipin.edu.pl)

Sonia Nilsson is the Development Leader at the Central Stockholm Psychiatric Unit in association with the Karolinska Institute. Her role encompasses the training of nurses and other professional groups and the strategic development of services. Her special interests include case management, evaluation of training, ethics and prevention of suicide. (Sonia.Nilsson@spo.sll.se)

Paul O'Halloran is Director of the Practice Development and Training Section at the Sainsbury Centre for Mental Health in London. He is a clinical psychologist with experience in developing community based services, policy development, research and training the workforce within mental health. (poh@scmh.org.uk)

Pere Roura Poch is the Head of the Department of Clinical Epidemiology and Research at Vic General Hospital in Barcelona. His interests include clinical and health information systems and health service research particularly the utilisation of resources. (proura@hgv.es)

Peter Ryan is Head of Mental Health Training and Development and Director of the Centre for Mental Health Research and Development at the Middlesex University and the Sainsbury Centre for Mental Health in London. He has worked for many years within the field of social work and his interests include social policy, assertive outreach and case management in community care, residential care of the mentally ill and occupational stress in relation to the management of violence. He chairs ENTER Mental Health. (p.ryan@mdx.ac.uk)

Inger Simonson is a Training Officer at the Nordland Psychiatric Hospital in Northern Norway and manages the regional project to train child and adolescent psychiatrists. (inger.simonsen@nps.nl.no)

Vibeke Sjorgren is a Psychologist in the Department of Education within the Psychiatric Service of the County of Aarhus, Denmark. She supervises the training of mental health professionals and managers and her interests include resolving conflict, stress management and prevention of violence. (VSj@psykiatri.aaa.dk)

Piotr Switaj is a research officer and clinical practitioner in the Department of Psychiatry in the Institute of Psychiatry and Neurology in Warsaw, Poland. (wegrzyn@ipin.edu.pl)

Colette Turner is a Research Officer and Coordinator in the Centre for Mental Health, Research and Development at the Middlesex University in London. She coordinates the OSCAR Project and is the Administrator for ENTER Mental Health. (c.turner@mdx.ac.uk)

Jacek Wciorka is Associate Professor and Head of the First Department of Psychiatry in the Institute of Psychiatry and Neurology in Warsaw, Poland. His interests include psychopathology and neuropsychological deficits in schizophrenia.
(wciorka@ipin.edu.pl)